How to Start Using Photoshop Regardless of whether you're a new Photoshop user or an old pro, there are basic skills to keep in mind when you use the software. Here are some handy tips and tricks that can help you get the most out of Photoshop. This is a guide for Photoshop CS6. Copy & paste Simply select your image and click with the Ctrl or Cmd key. You'll be presented with a pull-down menu that will allow you to copy, cut, or paste from various objects in your image. You can also drag and drop objects around your image, and if you click on a layer, the contents of that layer will be copied or pasted to the new location. Layer system Photoshop uses a layer-based editing system to create and manipulate raster images. A raster image is one that consists of pixels that can be edited in isolation. Unlike vector images (such as outlines, curves, and paths), raster images are edited with the use of layers. In order to create or manipulate a layer, you must have the layer already selected. The tools available in Photoshop are stored in the toolbox and can be used on any layer. To select a tool, simply click on the tool in the toolbox. Stacking layers Stacking layers is a fundamental technique used in Photoshop to lay layers on top of one another, manipulate them individually, and then remove them from the original image. Layer stacking is an essential skill to learn when using Photoshop, and it enables you to add depth and dimension to your images. To add a new layer to an image, choose Layer > New > Layer. Selecting this option will add a blank layer. Once you have the layer you want, you can change the opacity, play with the color, and apply various types of effects to the layer, including color correction, adjustment layers, and masking. Select a layer Selecting a layer in Photoshop is just as easy as selecting anything else in the image, with the exception of moving the layer. To select a layer, simply click on the layer. You can then select individual portions of the layer, as well as make color changes, adjustments, and apply filters. To delete a layer, simply click on the layer and press the Delete key. Modifying a layer Working with layers is an essential skill to develop if you're a Photoshop user. Although you can work on

." Ibid. at 297-298. "[T]he commerce power of Congress will reach... at least three categories of activities in which it is unnecessary to look to the enactments of the individual states to discover the local interests and *1287 concerns that are the legitimate subjects of state legislation." Id. at 297. It is particularly important that courts define the category of activity that is the subject of congressional regulation so that we do not place the states' power to maintain an effective system of public institutions [] an interest that the Supreme Court has consistently recognized as being of vital concern to the states' constitutionally mandated sovereignty [] outside the scope of Congress' authority. As the Supreme Court noted in Hodel, supra, 487 U.S. at ___, 108 S.Ct. at 2579: Congress has not only the power but the duty "to provide for the... general Welfare... of the United States." U.S. Const., Art. I, § 8, cl. 1. The Constitution entrusts Congress with that duty by granting it the plenary power to regulate commerce. The national government may exercise that power through delegation to the President or to administrative agencies. But it cannot exercise that power simply by abrogating the power of the States to legislate on matters that Congress deems of sufficient importance to require national regulation. For example, if the right of a State to enact legislation protecting its citizens were abrogated by Congress, the States' ability to regulate in the area of health and safety would be diminished. Thus, the Supreme Court has specifically noted that the power to legislate is the power to regulate. (Emphasis added.) See also, Hodel, id. at ___, 108 S.Ct. at 2579. Congressional legislation abrogating the power of the states to regulate is not supported by a valid constitutional grant of power, and is contrary to the United States Constitution. "[I]t is established beyond argument that the power of the States to legislate cannot be nullified by [congressional] action, whether that action be called an affirmative grant of legislative power or merely an abridgment by Congress of the state's otherwise existing power." Hodel, id. at ___, 108 S.Ct. at 2579. The Commerce Clause is not self-executing, i.e. Congress may not constitutionally enact legislation under the commerce clause without the consent of the states. See United States v. Glover, 92 U.S.

Also, in the sticky section of the main forum, there is a link to vote on your top 50 dolphins players of all time. Dolphins had a very successful Saturday night. Seriously all together I would give up a month of Sundays for the Saturday nights. There was a date with Pioli/Giants 10,000 sack defensive coordinator Charles Woodson. Now after the game his team was not allowed to play again for a few years. Raiders W/loss 33-24. Dolphins W/loss 30-23. The Raiders looked good, but our offensive line held up way better than I expected them to. What is on Finhead? Hells yeah! What is this? I don't get it. Who are all these people here, showing up when I'm not even posting? I get people I know on here, and then this internet makes me think that everyone is here. How does it do that? And, why? Are they all posting in the media section as well? I'm not really sure what it is you guys do, but I like it. Hells yeah! What is this? I don't get it.
